INDIA bloc vows united fight, plans meetings, CJI letter

Opposition alliance resolves coordinated strategy, electoral reforms push & unity

NEW DELHI

The INDIA bloc on Monday sought to project unity and strengthen coordination among opposition parties, announcing a series of decisions aimed at sharpening its political strategy ahead of upcoming parliamentary battles and state elections.

Leaders of 25 opposition parties met in New Delhi and agreed to hold regular consultations every two months, with the next INDIA bloc meeting scheduled for August 8 in Hyderabad. The gathering came amid recent electoral setbacks for some alliance partners and reports of differences among constituent parties.

Addressing the media after the meeting, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge said the alliance had unanimously decided to write to the Chief Justice of India regarding the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) exercise, alleging electoral irregularities and concerns over voter rolls.

The bloc also resolved to demand the resignation of the Union Education Minister over alleged lapses in the conduct of NEET and CBSE examinations, arguing that the interests of lakhs of students had been compromised.

To ensure greater coordination during the forthcoming Monsoon Session of Parliament, alliance leaders agreed to conduct regular strategy meetings at the office of the Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha.

The move is intended to present a united front on key legislative and political issues.

While most major opposition leaders attended the meeting, the DMK and Aam Aadmi Party stayed away. Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray and Jharkhand Chief Minister Hemant Soren participated virtually.

Leaders across parties reiterated the need to safeguard democratic institutions, protect constitutional values and raise issues affecting people's livelihoods. Photographs shared by Congress after the meeting carried the slogan "United We Stand", underscoring the alliance's effort to display cohesion despite recent strains.

"It was agreed to send a letter to the Chief Justice of India on SIR, vote loot and stealing elections. The letter will be delivered very soon."

Congress slams BJP over RS snub to Deve Gowda

BENGALURU

The ruling Congress in Karnataka on Monday launched a sharp attack on the BJP after it denied a Rajya Sabha nomination to former Prime Minister and JD(S) patriarch H.D. Deve Gowda, calling the move an insult to both the regional party and the people of Karnataka.

The controversy erupted after the BJP announced the candidature of Prof. M. Nagaraja for the Rajya Sabha election from Karnataka, overlooking Deve Gowda, whose current term in the Upper House ends on June 25.

Congress general secretary and Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala accused the BJP of humiliating its ally JD(S) despite benefiting from its support in Parliament. He also criticised Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy for accepting what he termed a public slight to his father and party.

State Congress President B.K. Hariprasad said the BJP had betrayed Karnataka by sidelining a former Prime Minister who had represented the state for decades in national politics.

The BJP, however, has not publicly responded to the criticism. The Rajya Sabha election in Karnataka is scheduled as four seats fall vacant later this month.

"The BJP and the NDA have insulted the people of Karnataka. No one expected them to betray like this after taking the support of JD(S) and Deve Gowda for passing various Bills in Parliament. People will punish the BJP in the days ahead."

CM urges party workers to stay united and focus ahead

CM Shivakumar calls for unity, sets sights on 2028 Assembly polls

BENGALURU

Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar called upon Congress leaders and workers to put aside internal differences and work collectively to ensure the party's victory in the 2028 Karnataka Assembly elections.

Addressing Congress leaders and workers from Hunsur, who met him at the Kumara Krupa Government Guest House in Bengaluru to congratulate him, Shivakumar stressed the importance of unity and teamwork in strengthening the party at the grassroots level.

The delegation, led by former MLA Manjunath and Mysuru-based Congress leader and spokesperson M. Lakshman, extended their greetings to the Chief Minister following his recent elevation.

Shivakumar urged party members to forget past misunderstandings, rivalries and grievances, stating that political setbacks and disagreements should not distract them from the larger objective of serving the people and building a stronger organisation.

He said the position of Chief Minister was not a personal achievement but a responsibility entrusted by party workers and the people of Karnataka. According to him, the support, trust and hard work of Congress workers across the state had played a major role in his political journey.

The Chief Minister also cautioned party workers to remain vigilant regarding the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls and ensure that eligible voters are not deprived of their voting rights.

Reiterating the need for unity, he urged workers not to lose focus or become complacent. He said protecting every vote and maintaining close contact with the electorate would be crucial in the coming years.

"Forget party differences and move forward together. Your goal should be to win the 2028 Assembly elections and bring the party back to power with greater strength."

Tehran halts attacks on Israel, warns against further strikes on Lebanon

TEHRAN

Iran on Monday announced the end of its military operations against Israel but warned that any renewed attacks on Lebanon or Iranian territory would trigger a stronger response. The statement came after a fresh exchange of missile strikes between the two regional rivals. Iranian forces launched attacks following Israeli strikes linked to Hezbollah targets in the southern suburbs of Beirut. Israel later carried out retaliatory strikes on locations in Iran, with explosions reported in Tehran, Tabriz and Isfahan. Iran's armed forces said the operations had concluded for now but cautioned that any future aggression would be met with "a more crushing" response. The latest escalation has raised fears of a wider regional conflict despite ongoing diplomatic efforts to preserve a fragile ceasefire. Regional powers and international mediators continue to push for restraint as tensions remain high across West Asia.

TMC faces fresh turmoil as 20 MPs back NDA, write to Speaker

NEW DELHI

The political crisis within the Trinamool Congress (TMC) deepened on Monday after senior MP Kakoli Ghosh Dastidar claimed that nearly 20 Lok Sabha members of the party had written to Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla expressing their desire to support the National Democratic Alliance (NDA).

The move marks a significant escalation in the turmoil gripping the Mamata Banerjee-led party following its recent electoral setbacks and internal dissent. According to Ghosh Dastidar, the MPs have informed the Speaker of their decision while choosing not to resign from the TMC immediately. Claiming that she continues to be the party's chief whip in the Lok Sabha, Ghosh Dastidar said the decision was taken after consultations among fellow parliamentarians. The dissident group reportedly plans to function as a separate parliamentary bloc while extending support to the NDA.

The development comes days after divisions surfaced within the party's legislative wing in West Bengal, where a section of MLAs defied the leadership's choice for Leader of the Opposition. Sources in the rebel camp indicated that the MPs believe aligning with the NDA reflects the public mandate. The move could have major implications for the TMC's parliamentary strength and its role within the opposition alliance at the national level.

TMC Parliamentary Numbers

- Lok Sabha MPs: 28
- Rajya Sabha MPs: 12
- MPs backing NDA claim: 20
- Anti-defection threshold: Two-thirds
- Letter sent to: LS Speaker Om Birla

Challenge for Mamata leadership

The latest rebellion has transformed internal discontent into a full-fledged parliamentary challenge for the TMC leadership. While the dissident MPs have not formally resigned from the party, their decision to support the NDA could weaken the party's influence in Parliament and complicate its role within the opposition bloc.

HM takes swipe at BJP, RSS after threat accused arrested

BENGALURU

Karnataka Home Minister Priyank Kharge on Monday launched a fresh attack on the BJP and the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) after the arrest of a man accused of issuing death threats and making casteist remarks against him on social media.

The remarks came shortly after Karkala Town Police arrested Sudhir Bangera, who allegedly posted abusive and threatening content targeting the minister on Facebook.

Kharge accused the BJP of using RSS workers to intimidate political opponents and renewed his demand for the organisation to formally register.

Sharing screenshots of the alleged threats on social media, Kharge said the reaction from his critics reflected their anxiety following his assumption of office as Home Minister.

Kharge has repeatedly questioned the legal status of the RSS. Earlier this year, he argued that organisations receiving donations should be registered under the law and suggested that legislative measures could be considered if the RSS continued to remain unregistered.

Case against microlight pilot Audrey Maben dismissed

Stating that criminal prosecution is a weapon for personal hatred, the High Court quashed the case against country's first female microlight pilot, Audrey Deepika Maben, on charges of fraud.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The High Court, holding that a criminal case filed out of personal and professional enmity is an abuse of legal process, has ordered the quashing of the case filed against the country's famous female pilot Audrey Deepika Maben on charges of fraud and forging signatures to renew her license.

However, the court said it would not interfere with the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA)'s independent investigation into the technical aspects of the license renewal.

The order was issued by a single-judge bench headed by Justice M Nagaprasanna, which heard a petition filed by pilot Audrey Deepika Maben seeking quashing of the case against her.

As per the complainant's allegations, the incident took place in 2014. However, it came to light four years later, in 2018, and the bench said in its order that the complaint, filed after a delay, was merely for the purpose of revenge.

Also, the license was renewed in 2014, but the complaint was filed in 2017-18. The bench rejected the argument of M.C. Vinitha's lawyer, who alleged that the fake signature was noticed while cleaning the cupboard at home, and said that even though both of them work in the same field, they have been silent for 4 years, and that the complaint was filed to defraud Audrey when she was preparing for a global flight adventure.

Citing various orders of the Supreme Court, the bench said that cases of long delays without any valid reason should be quashed. The criminal justice system cannot be used as a platform for personal vendetta, it said in its order.

The criminal investigation cannot continue as the forensic laboratory report regarding the handwriting of the forged signature does not match the signature. According to the Indian Evidence Act, the expert report is only supplementary evidence. It is not a final verdict, the bench said.Meanwhile, the criminal case is being quashed in its entirety. However, this is a dispute related to the renewal of aviation licenses, and the complaint is based on the copy of signatures and technical documents.

'DGCA can continue probe on technical aspects of license renewal'
Since the civil aviation and licensing authority is under the control of the DGCA, no decision has been taken in the petitioner's case. Therefore, the bench said the independent investigation being conducted by the DGCA on the technical aspects of the license renewal can continue.

GANDHIJI ASSASSINATION CASE

Plea seeking formation of parliamentary panel dismissed, petitioner fined Rs 10K

CH NEWS,BENGALURU

The High Court has dismissed a petition seeking the formation of a joint parliamentary committee to investigate why the central government did not form a judicial inquiry commission for nearly 17 years until 1965 in connection with the assassination of the Father of the Nation Mahatma Gandhi, and has ordered a fine of Rs 10,000 to the petitioner.

The order was issued by a bench comprising Chief Justice and Justice KS Hemalekha, who heard a public interest litigation filed by KN Manjunath, a representative of Jagrita Karnataka and Jagrita Bharat Sangathan, in this regard.

The bench, which examined the petition during the hearing, said that the same petition had been filed earlier also. Now you have filed the petition again with the same pleas. There is no public interest in the petition. Your action is a waste of the valuable time of the judicial system.

The petitioner repeatedly requested that the case involve national interest. Therefore, our argument should be heard. The bench rejected the plea, dismissed the petition, imposed a fine and ordered that the fine amount be submitted to the State Legal Services Authority within the next two weeks.

A joint parliamentary committee should be formed to find out the reason why a judicial inquiry commission was not formed for 17 years, from 1947 to 1965, regarding the assassination of Gandhiji. It has also been requested that an investigation be conducted into the factors that led to the initiation of a judicial inquiry after 17 years, i.e. in 1965.

The petition also demands that the background of Gandhiji's reference to armed conflict as an option to prevent the partition of India in a letter to the British Viceroy on May 8, 1947, be examined.

Meanwhile, a special search operation should be conducted to recover 51 boxes of documents, which are said to contain the draft documents of the second volume of Gandhiji's autobiography, which were allegedly moved from the Nehru Memorial Museum in 2008. The letter allegedly written by Gandhiji to the United Nations on December 30, 1947 regarding the Kashmir issue is missing and another letter dated January 1, 1948 has been used in its place. The petition has requested that necessary steps be taken to conduct an international investigation into this matter.

The petitioner had filed an interim petition seeking directions to respond to the petitions filed by the concerned authorities on November 13, 2025 and March 13 and March 25, 2026, within two weeks.

This area has many species of trees including neem, arali, and honge. More than half of these

Banking and insurance complaints continued to rise in Karnataka during 2025-26, according to data from the Karnataka State Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission (KSCDRC), highlighting persistent concerns over claim rejections, service deficiencies and consumer awareness. Cases against banks increased from 35,954 in March 2025 to 37,897 in March 2026. Insurance-related complaints rose from 74,364 to 77,397 during the same period.In banking-related cases, Belagavi topped with 13,240 cases filed and 12,601 disposed of, followed by Mysuru, which recorded 2,009 cases filed and 1,993 disposed, and Dharwad with 1,361 cases filed and 1,238 disposed of. In the insurance segment, Haveri led with 5,330 cases filed and 5,300 disposed of, followed by Dharwad with 3,567 cases filed and 3,397 disposed, and Gadag with 2,728 cases filed and 2,705 disposed of. Behind the numbers are consumers who say they are struggling to obtain settlements despite years of paying premiums. A 63-year-old resident of Jayanagar said he and his wife had purchased health insurance to avoid financial dependence during medical emergencies. However, when his wife underwent surgery, the insurer rejected the claim citing policy clauses that he said were never adequately explained. Despite paying nearly Rs 2-3 lakh in premiums over the years, we had to bear the expenses ourselves.

For many consumers, the real test of a bank or insurance policy begins when they need help. Increasingly, that is also when disputes begin.

Even after securing a consumer court order in our favour, we have not received the money, he said. A 53-year-old resident of Mysuru Road recounted a similar experience after undergoing surgery for a fracture. The insurance company denied the claim, saying they do not cover such cases of minor fractures, he said. Consumer rights activists attribute many disputes to poor understanding of policy terms and inadequate communication at the time of sale.

YG Muralidharan, founding member of Consumer Rights Education and Awareness Trust (CREAT), said consumers are often not informed about exclusions, cancellation clauses and other conditions until a dispute arises. He also called for greater consumer awareness programmes and stronger outreach efforts by regulators.KSCDRC chairman Shivashankare Gowda said claim rejections and delays frequently occur on technical grounds. He urged consumers to fully understand policy conditions, disclose medical histories accurately and exercise caution while using online banking services.

Data also shows 15 vacancies for presidents and 13 member posts across district consumer commissions. Despite staffing shortages, officials said Karnataka has improved case disposal rates through administrative reforms, with district commissions disposing of more than 97% of cases filed since inception.

Not just my father's nominee': Siddu's son on political journey

CH NEWS,BENGALURU

From being a political recluse in 2016 to becoming a cabinet minister and torchbearer of his father, former chief minister Siddaramaiah's legacy, Yathindra Siddaramaiah (45), has come a long way in a short time.

While Yathindra believes it is hard to walk out of his father's shadow, he says he can and will carve out a political image of his own.

"As a first-time Minister, I must hit the ground running as only one and a half years are left, with the last six months lost in preparation for the 2028 elections. I need to fast-track projects and get them completed on time in the urban development department," he said.

Every cabinet has a mix of the old and new faces. In my case, the high command decided to induct me just before my father stepped down. The rest of the new faces will arrive with cabinet expansion, he said.

"Both, I am nominee of my father and representative of Kuruba community. With him stepping down, the high command believed that giving his son the ministerial berth would help pacify the community which was dismayed with Siddaramaiah being asked to vacate his post," he added.

Also, the community needs higher representation. But emerging out of your father's shadow will be a challenge…He is a once in a generation leader. I will not even attempt to step into his shoes. But if I remain true to my ideology and remain committed in my approach then I shall be able to carve out my own identity. I intend to have a long career in politics.

The AHINDA movement is bigger than any leader. While my father will continue to be the face of the movement, newer faces, not just me, with commitment in the ideology will join. It is in fact a bigger challenge than that of handling a department. But as house leader you need to tackle the opposition and respond to peoples' representatives. But with experience that too can be managed. Speaking on MUDA controversy, he said, although there has been an appeal filed in the higher courts, the peoples' representatives court has already accepted the B report filed by the investigating agencies. So, my parents have been given a clean chit.

On preliminary assessment of the department, he said, a lot of the smaller cities and towns do not have a masterplan. People are forced to approach the department for every work related to land use and change in land use.

Also, the Chief Minister announced the B to A khata extension to the entire state that needs seamless transition. We will be digitising land records across the towns and cities. On Bidadi township, he said, in general I do believe that they are necessary to decongest cities. At the same time, farmers' voices need to be heard and cannot be pushed into parting with their land.

A compromise on the compensation must be identified so that it is a win-win situation for all, he said.

DKS chants 3A, amity mantra for Kanakapura

CH NEWS,BENGALURU

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar has made an appeal to his constituency, Kanakapura in Bengaluru South district, to maintain peace and harmony, instructed police to not register frivolous cases, urged farmers to stay focused on agriculture, which is more lucrative than urban jobs.

He claimed land prices in his home district have quadrupled ever since Ramanagara was renamed in a brand-upgrade exercise. He listed Ashraya, Arogya and Akshara (3A) --

(shelter, health and education) - as priorities for the region, and said CSR schools will be established in one-in-three taluks.

In his first barnstorming rally of his home district after assuming the CM's office, Shivakumar kicked off his Janashirvada yatra, and visited about a dozen villages in and around Kanakapura. During pitstops and temple visits, the CM spoke about his vision for the region and the state.

He made a soft pitch for the 2028 elections, asking people, do you want a two-year Chief Minister or one with a full term.

He urged locals to be friendly with each other, and not quarrel. This should be a zero-police-case taluk in Karnataka. Kanakapura has a court, there is no need to go to district headquarters Ramanagara and Bengaluru. He said real power rests with voters, who ensured the state received five guarantees as promised in the 2023 election manifesto of Congress. He sought their support for Congress's victory in 2028 too. During his speeches expressing gratitude to voters and visiting local deities, the CM warned the people of the likely consequences of Election Commission's voter-roll revision exercise (SIR).

"If you want your Gruha Lakshmi, Gruha Jyothi and Anna Bhagya, ensure your votes are here," he told supporters.

Reminding them of appreciation in land value, he urged locals to retain land and continue with agricultural, horticultural and sericultural activities. "You have milk centres unparalleled in the state and have contributed largely to Bamul, a district milk cooperative. Do not sell your land; people of Bengaluru will come here. Your agricultural activities will earn you as much as jobs in the city," the CM said.

He urged youths to not form workers' unions. Instead, upskill and take up jobs in Harohalli, an industrial township near Kanakapura.

MANIPUR CONFLICT CONTINUES DEEPENING ETHNIC DIVIDE CRISIS

SHARON FAUSTINA J
BENGALURU

The ongoing violence in Manipur began on 3 May 2023, after clashes broke out between the Meitei community from the Imphal Valley and the Kuki-Zo tribal groups living in the surrounding hill regions. The conflict is widely seen as a complex situation involving ethnic, territorial and socio-economic issues between the mainly Hindu Meitei majority and the Christian tribal communities. Over time, the situation has turned severe, leading to heavy loss of life and property. Reports state that more than 258 people have died, around 60,000 people have been displaced from their homes, about 1,000 people have been injured, and 32 individuals are still missing. In addition, 4,786 houses have been burned down and around 386 religious structures, including temples and churches, have been vandalized, adding to the scale of destruction and fear across the state.

Speaking on the issue, Mr. Mashungmi Zingkhai, Former President of Katho Katamnao Long, said that the situation needs to be understood through its historical background and long-term social context. He explained that many communities have raised concerns over lack of strong intervention and repeated failure in building trust between groups. According to him, political neglect and unresolved grievances have made the conflict worse over time. He also expressed that ongoing tensions have created deep mistrust among communities and made peace efforts more difficult. His remarks reflect the concerns of some local voices who feel that stronger steps are needed to bring stability and justice. He further highlighted that dialogue between communities is essential to prevent further escalation and reduce suffering among ordinary people living in affected regions. The silence of the state and the central government over this huge conflict is a big shock to the entire nation and the people of Manipur request the central government to take serious steps to restore unity and peace in the state.

A resident from Manipur shared that people in the state are extremely exhausted due to the continuous unrest and repeated incidents of violence. Many families have been forced to leave their homes and are now living in temporary shelters with limited access to basic facilities. Children's education has been severely affected as schools in several areas remain closed or disrupted due to safety concerns. Fear has also increased among women and children, as uncertainty continues in many parts of the state. Daily life has been heavily disturbed, with restrictions on movement and communication challenges making normal activities difficult. The emotional and psychological stress on families continues to grow as the situation remains unresolved.

The Manipur conflict continues to highlight deep divisions between communities and the urgent need for lasting peace in the region. Despite repeated appeals for calm, tensions remain high in several areas, and many displaced families are still unable to return home safely. There is a growing demand for justice, rehabilitation and meaningful dialogue between all groups involved. Observers believe that rebuilding trust and ensuring fair and consistent engagement between communities is necessary for long term stability. As the crisis continues, hopes remain that coordinated efforts by authorities, civil society and community leaders will help restore peace and normal life in Manipur. The state and central government is expected to involve in this issue and take serious steps to solve the conflict before it worsens more.

One-Day conference on Yoga for memory enhancement held

MYSURU

A one-day scientific conference on "Yoga for Memory Enhancement: Bridging Traditional Wisdom and Modern Neuroscience" was hosted by Sarada Vilas College of Pharmacy in collaboration with the Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences in Mysuru on Monday.

The conference was inaugurated by Prof. Pradyumna Kumar Sethy, principal and professor of Physics, Regional Institute of Education (RIE), Mysuru, who delivered the keynote address, said that memory-related disorders, particularly Alzheimer's disease, are becoming increasingly prevalent across the world. The memory problems that may affect individuals from a young age can be mitigated through the practice of various yogasanas and healthy daily activities from the student stage itself.

Prof Sethy said that India's traditional medicinal systems and non-pharmacological therapies such as yoga, meditation, and regular physical activity can play a significant role in maintaining brain health and cognitive well-being. However, it is important that the dependency on social media and mobile phones are reduced as much as possible.

Encouraging meaningful interpersonal interactions and sharing life experiences with others can help keep the brain active and support memory retention.

Dinesh, Secretary of Sarada Vilas Educational Institutions. The conference was presided over by Dr. Hanumanthachar Joshi, Principal of Sarada Vilas College of Pharmacy. The resource persons for the conference included Sri Hari from GSS Foundation, Dr. Suresh of FAME Medical College, Mysuru, and Dr. Lakshminarayana Shanai, who shared their expertise on the subject.

NEED FOR YOGA SPORTS TRAINING FACILITIES IN MYSURU STRESSED

MYSURU

With a growing number of talented yoga athletes emerging from Mysuru and Mysuru Rural districts and achieving success at state and national-level competitions, there is an urgent need to strengthen training facilities and professional guidance for aspiring yoga sportspersons

Addressing reporters here on Monday, international yoga teacher Ramesh Shetty and Suvarna Belaku Foundation Honorary President Manjunath noted that while yoga offers significant opportunities as a competitive sport, many promising students are unable to reach their full potential due to the lack of structured training systems and expert coaching. Mysuru, widely known as the "Yoga City," enjoys a rich yoga heritage that has earned recognition both nationally and internationally.

However, greater priority must be given to yoga sports by the Department of Youth Empowerment and Sports to ensure continuous, scientific and technical training for athletes.

They urged the government to appoint National Institute of Sports (NIS)-qualified yoga coaches in sports hostels across the district. Such appointments would provide students with professional training, competitive exposure and scientific coaching methods while also creating opportunities for talented youth from rural areas.

They stressed that yoga should be promoted not only as a health and wellness activity but also as a competitive sport.

Appropriate support and infrastructure would enable more Mysuru-based athletes to excel at national and international levels. The authorities must introduce yoga training programmes in district sports hostels and appoint qualified instructors to encourage the growth of yoga sports. Adequate guidance and infrastructure are essential to make Mysuru's reputation as the "Yoga City" truly meaningful.

Yatnal criticises government over Bidadi township

Basanagouda Patil Yatnal accused government of acquiring fertile farmland for townships while ignoring farmers near Bidadi

RAMANAGARA

Vijayapura MLA Basavanagouda Patil Yatnal visited the Bidadi township protest site in Ramanagara and extended his support to farmers opposing land acquisition for the project.

He said the issue will be raised in the upcoming legislative session and warned that if the Chief Minister D K Shivakumar does not give a proper reply, an indefinite sit in protest will be launched by farmers and supporters.

Yatnal accused the government of taking away fertile farmland for township development and said farmers who have been cultivating coconut mango and silk crops are being ignored by authorities planning urban expansion near Bidadi.

He claimed that the project could lead to misuse of land worth thousands of crores and demanded transparency while challenging the Chief Minister to visit the site and prove that any barren land exists in the area.

He also criticised restrictions imposed near the protest area and said farmers should be allowed to express their concerns freely while urging unity among villagers against the township plan.

He said he is not involved in any political drama and insisted that he is only fighting for farmers who have been protesting for more than four hundred days demanding fair compensation and protection of their land rights in the region.

Yatnal also made strong remarks against the township plan saying political leaders are misusing power and warned that public anger is increasing, adding that continued neglect of farmers issues could lead to serious consequences in the future.

The protest witnessed participation from several farmer leaders and villagers who have been opposing the Bidadi township project for a long time and they demanded that the government withdraw the acquisition plan immediately to protect agricultural land and livelihoods of rural communities.

Local farmer representatives said they will continue their protest until the government cancels the township project and ensures justice for landowners while urging political leaders to hold meaningful discussions and avoid confrontation that could disturb peace in the region and called for peaceful resolution through democratic process while requesting immediate withdrawal of the acquisition notification and fair compensation for affected families in the Bidadi region.

Kolar administration prepares for monsoon disaster response

The district targets sowing across 72,000–76,000 hectares with certified subsidised seeds available, while drinking water shortages in 13 villages are being addressed

KOLAR

The Kolar district administration is fully prepared to handle the southwest monsoon and possible natural disasters, Deputy Commissioner Dr. M R Ravi said during a review meeting on Monday. He warned officials that any negligence in disaster management and public response will lead to strict action and personal accountability.

The district recorded a seven per cent rainfall deficit in pre monsoon season but weather forecasts show above normal rainfall during the southwest monsoon, so departments have been told to prepare early and manage rainwater for agriculture use. Officials reported that mango crops over 1618 hectares were damaged and 89 per cent compensation data entry is complete, while remaining work in Srinivaspur, Malur and KGF taluks must be finished within two days.

The Horticulture Department has been asked to study falling mango quality export issues and market rejection by forming an expert committee as directed in a recent DISHA meeting.

The district has set a sowing target of 72000 to 76000 hectares and 6474 quintals of certified seeds are available, with farmers encouraged to use subsidised seeds and practice intercropping with ragi and groundnut.

Drinking water shortage is reported in 13 villages and tanker supply is ongoing while borewell drilling and pipeline works are being expedited after approvals.

Electricity repairs are also underway, with 48 of 110 damaged poles already fixed and remaining works expected to finish within two to three days. Health officials said 97 per cent FMD vaccination is complete, no LSD cases are reported, and fodder stocks are sufficient for 16 weeks.

The Health Department has been directed to intensify surveillance for dengue and malaria during monsoon season across the district. Ravi warned that no department can cite staff shortage or coordination issues as excuse and said strict action will follow any failure.

The meeting was attended by senior district officials from multiple departments including revenue, forest, health and panchayat bodies. He also directed solid waste management teams to fix improper garbage disposal issues and ensure cleaner surroundings in all towns and villages to prevent health risks during the rainy season across the district.

The foundational objective of the Aspirational District Scheme is to eliminate regional imbalances by prioritizing sustainable development across India's backward regions, stated Ujwal Kumar Ghosh, Joint Secretary of the Union Commerce Department. Presiding over a comprehensive progress review meeting of the Aspirational District Programmes at the new District Commissioner's Office auditorium, Ghosh directed departmental heads to take immediate, definitive steps to deliver welfare initiatives to eligible local beneficiaries.

Ghosh emphasized that Raichur, identified as Karnataka's sole aspirational district is steadily achieving its targets through targeted developmental interventions. He reminded the administrative body that NITI Aayog monitors 112 districts and 500 blocks nationwide that lag in crucial sectors such as agriculture, education, healthcare, infrastructure, and skill development. "Every officer must remain highly proactive. We must ensure proper execution of loan facilities, social security pensions, and achieve 100% database linking across the district to streamline tracking," the Joint Secretary instructed.

Providing a localized progress brief, Deputy Commissioner Poovita S. highlighted that Raichur has secured a commendable position on the national performance index across forty-nine distinct developmental metrics since the scheme's 2018 inception. Adding to the medical indicators, Zilla Panchayat CEO Ishwar Kumar Kandu detailed that under the 'Nutrition Raichur' initiative, 250 vulnerable villages are being targeted through data-driven health interventions under the Integrated Nutrition and Health Initiative and the Samratna Abhiyan to actively track maternal immunization, institutional deliveries, and adolescent health.

Minister Khader announced emergency nurse recruitment for Wenlock and Lady Goschen hospitals and ordered fogging drives against dengue

Critical staff shortages cripple district government hospitals

MANGALURU

Extreme shortages of vital healthcare personnel, including pharmacists, lab technicians, and staff nurses, are severely disrupting patient care across primary health centers (PHCs) and taluk hospitals in Dakshina Kannada. Aggrieved medical officers highlighted these systemic vulnerabilities during a high-profile health department review meeting chaired by Health and Family Welfare Minister U.T. Khader Farid at Praja Soudha in Padil.

Official data presented by District Health Officer Dr. Thimmaiah painted a grim picture of the district's medical infrastructure. Out of eighty-seven sanctioned pharmacist posts, a mere thirty-one are on active duty, with twenty-six filled through external contracts and the remainder completely vacant. Similarly, twenty-one out of eighty-one sanctioned lab technician positions remain unfulfilled. Doctors from rural pockets like Sullia Bellare and Belthangady Padangady revealed they are forced to shoulder massive workloads without a single permanent staff nurse or data entry operator. Furthermore, an acute deficit of ASHA workers failing the mandatory ratio of one worker per one thousand citizens has heavily crippled grassroots healthcare monitoring.

To combat the escalating crisis as the seasonal monsoon triggers fears of dengue and malaria outbreaks, Minister Khader announced the immediate direct recruitment of emergency staff nurses for Wenlock and Lady Goschen hospitals with a fixed salary of ₹17,000. He also directed planning officers to launch aggressive anti-larval fogging drives.

Addressing long-term solutions, senior officials suggested reviving the policy of regularizing contract doctors who complete three years of continuous service and offering postgraduate allowances to restore job security. Minister Khader concluded by ordering all hospitals to visibly install 'Health Friend' boards to guarantee seamless, free Ayushman Karnataka treatments for BPL cardholders, promising phased, step-by-step resolutions through upcoming taluk-level reviews.

Marking 12 years of the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Yojana (PMGKY) and related welfare initiatives, Modi said the government's approach has been guided by the principle of "Antyodaya", which focuses on ensuring that development reaches the poorest and most disadvantaged sections of society.

Pinarayi blasts Reddy over Hitler remark

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Former Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Monday strongly criticised Telangana Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy for linking the name of the Hyderabad Disaster Response and Asset Protection Agency (HYDRAA) to Adolf Hitler during a recent public event.

In a Facebook post, Vijayan described Reddy's remarks as shocking and inappropriate for a leader serving in a democratic country. He said it was unfortunate that a chief minister would appear to praise a figure widely regarded as one of history's most notorious fascist leaders. Vijayan further stated that such comments were an insult to democratic values and society.

The controversy began after remarks made by Revanth Reddy at an event in Bengaluru on Saturday. While explaining the reason behind the creation of HYDRAA, he said the agency was established to tackle widespread encroachments on lakes, nalas and other public water bodies in Hyderabad.

Speaking about the agency's name, Reddy claimed that "Hydra" was Hitler's favourite word and referred to a special group associated with him. He added that he had drawn inspiration from the concept while naming HYDRAA. At the same time, he stressed that the agency's purpose was to protect public assets and remove illegal encroachments.

The Hyderabad Disaster Response and Asset Protection Agency was set up by the Telangana government in July 2024 to safeguard government lands.

NDA questions Cong after Gehlot claims 'conspiracy' over prez bid

NEW DELHI

Former Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot's recent statement about a "big conspiracy" that allegedly prevented him from becoming Congress president in 2022 has sparked a new political debate, with leaders of the NDA questioning the Congress party's internal functioning and leadership structure.

Reacting to Gehlot's comments, BJP National Spokesperson Shehzad Poonawalla said the statement reflected growing divisions within the Congress. He claimed that what was once seen as a political rivalry between Gehlot and Sachin Pilot now appeared to have turned into a conflict involving Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge. According to him, Gehlot's remarks were being viewed as a direct criticism of the party leadership.

Leaders of the Janata Dal (United) also criticised the Congress and suggested that the party was facing organisational challenges. JD(U) Chief Spokesperson Neeraj Kumar questioned who was responsible for the alleged conspiracy and whether the Congress had adequate internal democracy. He also asked whether senior leaders within the party had played any role in the developments that Gehlot referred to.

JD(U) National Spokesperson Rajeev Ranjan Prasad echoed similar views. He said that if Gehlot believed he had been treated unfairly, he should clearly identify those responsible.

Prasad further alleged that internal conflicts and factional politics had weakened the Congress in several states over the years.

The controversy began after

Gehlot stated that he was prepared to take over as Congress president in 2022 but that a major conspiracy derailed his chances and damaged his public image. His comments have once again brought attention to long-standing factional disputes within the party.

The Congress has not yet issued an official response to the latest criticism. However, NDA leaders have used Gehlot's remarks to raise questions about the opposition party's unity, decision-making process and internal leadership structure.

TN absent from INDIA bloc meeting amid rift

CHENNAI

For the first time in recent years, Tamil Nadu was not represented at a meeting of the opposition INDIA bloc held on Monday. The absence reflected major political changes in the state following the recent Assembly elections.

Neither the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK), once one of the alliance's strongest southern partners, nor the ruling Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) took part in the meeting. While the DMK stayed away because of strained ties with the Congress, the TVK was not invited as it does not have representation in Parliament.

According to sources, participation in the INDIA bloc meeting was limited to parties that have members in either the Lok Sabha or the Rajya Sabha. Although the TVK won the Tamil Nadu Assembly elections and formed the government with Congress support, it currently has no MPs in Parliament.

Political observers said the TVK's absence was linked to a decision taken after the Assembly elections.

In an effort to strengthen its relationship with the Congress, the party reportedly allotted its only vacant Rajya Sabha seat to its ally, leaving itself without direct parliamentary representation.

The more significant political development, however, is the growing distance between the DMK and the Congress. The Congress ended its long-standing alliance with the DMK and joined hands with the TVK before the Assembly elections. The move helped the TVK form the government but created resentment within the DMK.

Senior DMK leaders have repeatedly criticised the Congress for abandoning a decades-old partnership in favour of a political rival.

Party leaders have also said they cannot ignore the feelings of party workers who remain unhappy over the split.

Jharkhand Chief Minister Hemant Soren suffered a legal setback on Monday after a special court hearing cases under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) rejected his plea seeking discharge from a money laundering case linked to 8.86 acres of land in Ranchi.

The case relates to the alleged illegal acquisition of land in the Shanti Nagar area of Badgai locality and subsequent money laundering allegations. The Enforcement Directorate (ED), which is investigating the matter, has named Soren as one of the accused.

The special PMLA court delivered its order after hearing arguments from both the prosecution and the defence. The court observed that the materials and allegations placed before it were sufficient to continue proceedings at this stage. As a result, Soren's application for discharge was dismissed.

Pawar seeks changes in farm loan waiver conditions

BARAMATI

Nationalist Congress Party (Sharadchandra Pawar) president Sharad Pawar on Monday called for changes in the conditions attached to the Maharashtra government's Rs 36,585 crore farm loan waiver scheme, saying the restrictions should be revised to ensure that deserving farmers receive the benefits.

Speaking to reporters in Baramati, Pawar said that instead of rejecting the scheme outright, efforts should be made to correct its shortcomings through discussion and cooperation. He noted that democracy requires constructive dialogue to address issues in government policies and improve their implementation.

Pawar said some of the conditions in the loan waiver programme have created difficulties for farmers.

He urged the state government to work with the Centre to remove these obstacles and make the scheme more effective. According to him, the focus should be on ensuring that farmers receive the promised relief rather than discarding the policy because of its flaws.The Punyashlok Ahilyadevi Holkar farm loan waiver scheme is expected to benefit 55.72 lakh farmers across Maharashtra and clear the land records of nearly 16.74 lakh farmers. However, the government has imposed strict eligibility rules. Current and former ministers, MPs, MLAs, MLCs and local body leaders have been excluded. Government employees and pensioners receiving more than Rs 25,000 per month, along with employees of public sector units, cooperative banks and sugar factories above the same income limit, are also ineligible. Income tax payers with non-agricultural earnings are excluded as well.

Fire on oil tanker carrying 24 Indians off Oman coast

The Madagascar-flagged MT Marivex was not carrying cargo and all crew members were safe.

NEW DELHI

The Ministry of Ports, Shipping and Waterways (MoPSW) on Monday confirmed a fire incident aboard MT Marivex, a vessel carrying 24 Indian seafarers, located south of the Strait of Hormuz. Officials said all crew members are safe and being monitored closely.

Director in the Shipping Division, Opesh Kumar Sharma, said the fire was reported around 1:30 pm. He clarified that the information is still preliminary and authorities are gathering full details of the incident. He added that, based on available inputs, all Indian seafarers on board are safe.

The ministry said it is coordinating with the Ministry of External Affairs, Indian missions abroad, the Indian Navy and the Ministry of Defence to ensure the safety and well-being of the crew. Officials are also in constant touch with the vessel's owners and the Indian mission in Oman to verify facts.

Sharma said it is not yet confirmed whether the ship was hit by any projectile. He said investigations are ongoing to establish the exact cause of the fire.

He also noted that the vessel was well outside the Strait of Hormuz and located to its south at the time of the incident.

According to the ministry, the oil tanker was not carrying any cargo and was sailing in ballast condition. Only Indian seafarers were present on board the ship during the incident.

Sharma also shared that the Directorate General of Shipping control room has received over 12,000 calls and more than 26,000 emails since its activation. In the last 96 hours alone, hundreds of calls and emails were handled from seafarers, families and maritime stakeholders.

He added that more than 3,500 Indian seafarers have been safely repatriated so far. Port operations across India, he said, continue to remain normal without any congestion or disruption reported anywhere in the country.

Hydroponic weed worth crores seized at IG Airport

NEW DELHI

Customs officials at Delhi's Indira Gandhi International Airport seized 15.38 kg of suspected hydroponic weed worth around Rs 5.38 crore and arrested two passengers arriving from Kuala Lumpur, officials said on Monday.

The passengers were intercepted on June 7 after crossing the green channel based on specific intelligence and profiling.

During inspection, officers became suspicious after noticing two brand-new geysers among their luggage. Further questioning and examination of their mobile phone communications raised additional concerns.

Internet suspended as bulldozers raze 'illegal' religious structures

JAIPUR

Authorities suspended mobile internet services and deployed heavy security before beginning an anti-encroachment drive in Jaipur.

Mobile internet services were suspended in several parts of Jaipur on Monday as authorities launched an anti-encroachment operation involving the demolition of five religious structures, including a mosque and two temples. Officials said the action is being carried out near the Nandpuri underpass in Jagatpura to facilitate the widening of a road running parallel to a railway line.

The Jaipur Development Authority (JDA) is overseeing the exercise, which aims to expand the road to a width of 80 feet. According to officials, the structures marked for demolition include a mosque, two temples, a satsang building and a mazar.

To maintain law and order, around 3,000 police personnel have been deployed across the area.

Authorities have also imposed restrictions on movement in parts of the locality and are monitoring the situation through drone surveillance.

Officials said the JDA had earlier removed 134 encroachments from the road and later provided time to those managing the religious structures and other stakeholders to voluntarily remove the constructions.

As the deadline expired without complete compliance, the authority proceeded with the demolition drive under tight security arrangements.

Mobile internet, social media access, SMS and MMS services were suspended in parts of Jaipur from June 8 to June 9, while voice calls continued.

Officials said the move was aimed at preventing rumours and maintaining order. Police warned of strict action against misinformation, and electricity supply was temporarily cut in the affected area.

Pak faces deep revenue crisis amid massive tax shortfall

NEW DELHI

Pakistan is facing growing economic pressure after its tax collection agency reported a revenue shortfall of nearly Rs 684 billion during the first ten months of the current financial year. The development has raised fresh concerns about the country's already fragile financial situation.

According to a report published by Maldives Insight, Pakistan's Federal Board of Revenue (FBR) has failed to meet its collection targets despite introducing several tax measures. The report said the revenue gap has become a major factor behind the country's wider economic instability as it continues to deal with high inflation, rising debt and regular scrutiny from the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

The shortfall has once again brought criticism of the FBR, which has long faced allegations of inefficiency, corruption and weak administration. Source noted that the agency remained behind its targets from the beginning of the financial year, even after increasing taxes on salaried employees and registered businesses.

The FBR blamed part of the decline on disruptions in trade caused by conflicts in the Middle East, which affected import-related taxes and excise duties.

However, economists and media observers argued that external factors alone cannot explain the repeated failure to achieve revenue goals.

Experts say the agency continues to depend heavily on existing taxpayers instead of widening the tax base.

As a result, salaried workers and formal businesses are carrying a heavy tax burden, while sectors such as agriculture, real estate, wholesale trade and parts of the professional class continue to remain lightly taxed or outside the formal tax system, worsening the crisis further nationwide.

Cops foil airport kidnap plot, arrest 13 suspects

MALAPPURAM

Kerala Police have foiled an alleged plot to abduct an international passenger and rob him of gold and cash near Karipur Airport in Malappuram district. Thirteen people have been arrested in connection with the case, officials said on Monday.

According to the First Information Report (FIR), the accused had gathered outside the airport with plans to kidnap a passenger identified as Subair, who had arrived from abroad. The group allegedly intended to seize the gold and money believed to be in his possession.

Acting on a tip-off, police launched a special operation and detained the suspects from the airport premises at around 10 pm on Sunday before they could carry out their plan. The arrested individuals are residents of Kannur, Kozhikode and Malappuram districts in Kerala, as well as Kodagu district in neighbouring Karnataka.

During the investigation, police examined mobile phones seized from the accused and found evidence suggesting that more people were involved in the conspiracy.

Officials said several suspects managed to flee after noticing the presence of police personnel near the airport.

TN won't implement new Waqf Act: Min

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu has once again expressed its opposition to the implementation of the new Waqf Act.

Minority Welfare Minister SM Nasar Shahjahan said on Monday that the state government will not enforce certain key provisions of the amended law and will also not immediately meet the Centre's deadline for uploading Waqf property details to the Unified Waqf Management, Empowerment, Efficiency and Development (UMEED) portal.

The minister made the announcement while welcoming the first batch of Hajj pilgrims returning from Saudi Arabia at Chennai International Airport.

Speaking to reporters, Shahjahan said the state has faced several administrative and practical difficulties in uploading records of Waqf properties to the centralised digital platform. Because of these challenges, the Tamil Nadu government plans to approach the Union government and request additional time to complete the process.

He also said that resolutions opposing certain provisions of the amended law and its implementation are likely to be passed in the coming days. The minister strongly objected to the provision that allows the appointment of a non-Muslim member to the Waqf Board.

According to him, Tamil Nadu has not implemented this provision and has no plans to do so in the future.

Shahjahan stated that both the previous and present state governments have maintained the same stand on the issue. He said Tamil Nadu's position against implementing the new Act remains unchanged.

Amid ongoing discussions over the revised Waqf law, Shahjahan welcomed 417 returning Hajj pilgrims and reviewed the Rs 40-crore Hajj House project near Chennai airport, scheduled for completion in 2027.

BJP leaders file nominations for Rajasthan RS polls

JAIPUR

Senior Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leaders Satish Poonia and Alka Singh Gurjar on Monday filed their nomination papers as the party's candidates for the upcoming Rajya Sabha elections from Rajasthan.

Before submitting his nomination, Satish Poonia visited the famous Shri Govind Dev Ji Temple in Jaipur and offered prayers. He later shared on social media that he had sought blessings from the presiding deity of the city before beginning the nomination process.

Several senior BJP leaders were present during the filing of nominations, including Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma, Deputy Chief Ministers Diya Kumari and Prem Chand Bairwa, Rajasthan BJP President Madan Rathore, party office-bearers, public representatives and workers.

Alka Singh Gurjar also filed her nomination papers in the presence of Chief Minister Sharma, former Chief Minister Vasundhara Raje, Madan Rathore and other senior leaders. Earlier in the day, both candidates met the Chief Minister at the BJP state headquarters, where he congratulated them and extended his best wishes.

Three Rajya Sabha seats from Rajasthan are due for election as the terms of Union Minister Ravneet Singh Bittu, BJP MP Rajendra Gehlot and Congress MP Neeraj Dangi will end on June 21. Voting for the seats is scheduled for June 18.

Political observers believe the BJP selected Poonia and Gurjar to strengthen its support among the influential Jat and Gurjar communities, which play a key role in many Assembly constituencies across the state. Gurjar's nomination is also being viewed as an effort to improve women's representation from Rajasthan in the Rajya Sabha.

With the BJP enjoying a comfortable majority in the Rajasthan Assembly, both candidates are widely expected to win the election, while Congress is likely to secure the third seat.

AWAKE SURGERY

Patient watches film during complex brain surgery

AMARAVATI

Doctors at a private hospital in Andhra Pradesh successfully removed a brain tumour from a woman while she remained awake and watched her favourite actor's movie during the operation. The unusual procedure has drawn attention for highlighting the advanced technique known as awake bThe patient, Koteswaramma from Prakasam district, had been suffering from symptoms linked to a brain tumour and was referred to the hospital for specialised treatment. After detailed medical examinations, doctors found that the tumour was located close to areas of the brain responsible for speech and movement. To reduce the risk of damage to these critical functions, surgeons decided to perform an awake brain surgery.

During the operation, Koteswaramma watched actor Pawan Kalyan's film They Call Him OG. Doctors said the movie was not played merely for entertainment. It helped keep the patient calm and allowed the medical team to monitor her brain functions throughout the surgery.

Experts explained that when tumours are located near important brain regions controlling speech, movement, vision or memory, keeping a patient fully unconscious can increase risks. If a vital pathway is accidentally affected, doctors may not know until the patient wakes up. By keeping the patient awake, surgeons can continuously assess responses and avoid damaging critical areas.Awake brain surgery allows doctors to monitor brain functions in real time by asking patients to speak, move, or respond during the procedure.

In Koteswaramma's case, watching a film helped doctors assess her attention and visual responses. Experts said the surgery is used only when needed, depending on the tumour's location. Patients in similar operations have also sung, talked, or played instruments to stay calm.

BRICS nations are strengthening their economic influence, contributing significantly to global growth and technology exports

Speaking at the plenary session of the St. Petersburg International Economic Forum, Putin said the grouping now contributes around 40 per cent of global GDP based on purchasing power parity.

He also highlighted the growing technological capabilities of BRICS nations, saying they now account for more than one-third of the world's high-tech exports.

Putin pointed to China's leadership in artificial intelligence patents, India's strong role in the global software sector, and Russia's achievements in digital platforms, financial technology and nuclear energy. He said the world becomes fairer when economic growth includes billions of people who were previously outside the main centres of global development.He added that BRICS countries have contributed 49 per cent of global GDP growth in recent years.

Xi begins landmark visit to North Korea

Jinping arrived in Pyongyang for talks with Kim Jong-un, focusing on bilateral ties, regional issues, and strategic co-op amid geopolitical tensions.

BEIJING

Chinese President Xi Jinping arrived in Pyongyang on Monday for his first official visit to North Korea in seven years, where he is expected to hold talks with North Korean leader Kim Jong-un. According to Chinese state media, the visit aims to strengthen the long-standing friendship between the two neighbouring countries and further develop bilateral relations.

Xi was welcomed at the airport by Kim Jong-un and his wife, Ri Sol Ju, along with senior North Korean officials. Xi is accompanied by his wife, Peng Liyuan, senior Communist Party official Cai Qi, and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi during the two-day state visit.

The visit comes at a time of increasing diplomatic activity in the region. It follows recent visits by US President Donald Trump and Russian President Vladimir Putin to Beijing. It also takes place amid growing military cooperation between North Korea and Russia, which signed a mutual defence pact during Putin's visit to Pyongyang in 2024.

Ahead of the visit, Xi wrote in an article published in North Korea's official newspaper that relations between the two countries have entered a new stage with fresh opportunities for growth. He said China is ready to work closely with North Korea to strengthen strategic communication and deepen cooperation across political, economic and military fields.

This year marks the 65th anniversary of the China-North Korea Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance. Xi said both nations should use the occasion to expand exchanges and strengthen coordination on international issues.

The visit also comes shortly after North Korea reiterated that its nuclear status is irreversible and reported successful tests of advanced missile systems, adding significance to the discussions between the two leaders.

India issues advisory amid regional security crisis

TEL AVIV

The Indian Embassy in Tel Aviv has issued a security advisory for Indian nationals living in Israel, asking them to remain extremely cautious as tensions continue to rise across West Asia.

In a statement posted on social media, the embassy advised Indian citizens to stay alert and strictly follow safety instructions issued by Israeli authorities and the Home Front Command. The mission urged people to remain close to designated shelters and identify the nearest protected spaces near their homes and workplaces.

The embassy also advised Indians to avoid all non-essential travel within Israel until further notice. Citizens were encouraged to stay updated through official announcements, emergency alerts and local news reports. Updated safety information has been made available through the Home Front Command's official website.

For emergencies, the embassy said Indian nationals can contact its 24-hour helpline and assured that it remains in close contact with relevant authorities while monitoring developments closely.

At the same time, the Indian Embassy in Tehran issued a separate high-priority advisory, urging Indian citizens not to travel to Iran. Those currently in Iran were advised to leave the country using available means of transport as soon as possible.

The advisories were issued as tensions in West Asia intensified. Israel and Iran exchanged fresh attacks on Monday, marking 100 days of conflict and raising concerns of a broader regional war. Reports said both sides targeted key installations and launched missile strikes. The situation worsened after the Iran-backed Houthi group announced restrictions on Israeli shipping in the Red Sea. Amid the uncertainty, Indian missions urged citizens to stay safe, avoid unnecessary travel, and closely follow official updates.

UN raises concerns over women detentions in Herat

KABUL

The United Nations Assistance Mission in Afghanistan (UNAMA) has expressed concern over the detention of women in Herat by Taliban authorities for alleged violations of dress requirements. The UN body said the arrests raise serious human rights concerns and reminded authorities that all people have the right to freedom of movement and equality before the law.

According to reports, Taliban morality police detained at least 21 women and girls in different parts of Herat, including the southern road, Almas Market and Qasr area. Local sources said those detained included a nurse employed at Herat Regional Hospital.The arrests reportedly followed a directive issued by the Taliban's Directorate for the Promotion of Virtue and Prevention of Vice in Herat. The directive instructed male family members to ensure that women comply with the Taliban's interpretation of Islamic dress rules.

Under the order, women appearing in public without a prayer veil, with uncovered faces, wearing tight clothing or makeup could face detention and be sent to a women's detention facility. Human rights groups have voiced concerns that such measures increase restrictions on women's freedoms and public participation.

The latest detentions come amid reports of stricter enforcement of the Taliban's morality law across Afghanistan. Since returning to power in 2021, the Taliban has imposed several restrictions on women and girls, including banning girls from attending secondary schools beyond sixth grade and preventing women from studying at universities.Concerns continue as girls remain excluded from Afghanistan's Kankor exams for a fourth year. Taliban officials said over 110,000 candidates participated in the first three examination rounds.

Rival parties seek probe into election ballot shortage

SEOUL

South Korea's ruling and opposition parties have separately requested a parliamentary investigation into the ballot shortages reported during last week's local elections. Both sides have called for a thorough inquiry into the incident, although they differ on how the probe should be conducted.

The ruling Democratic Party (DP) and the main opposition People Power Party (PPP) submitted their requests to the National Assembly on Monday. They are expected to hold further discussions to resolve differences before the proposal is presented for a parliamentary vote.

The PPP proposed the creation of an 18-member special committee that would conduct a 60-day investigation. Under the proposal, the committee would have equal representation from both parties, with a PPP member serving as chairperson.

According to the opposition party, the investigation should examine the reasons behind the ballot shortages, whether voters' rights were affected, and allegations concerning police actions during the removal of ballot boxes from a polling station.

The PPP also plans to introduce legislation seeking an independent counsel investigation into the matter.

The ruling DP said the National Election Commission (NEC) failed to respond properly despite being aware of the possibility of ballot shortages. Party lawmaker Cheon Jun-ho said the incident caused confusion among voters and raised unnecessary doubts about the fairness of the election process.

He said the probe should determine the cause of the incident, address flaws in election management, and suggest reforms to safeguard voting rights.

Ballot shortages at more than a dozen Seoul polling stations disrupted voting and sparked fraud allegations. Police later dispersed protesters and moved ballot boxes for counting.

The meeting was attended by representatives of British political parties, community leaders and elected councillors. Participants discussed the ongoing unrest in PoJK, where protests led by the Joint Awami Action Committee have intensified over issues related to governance and political representation.

GAS CRISIS

Hyderabad residents struggle amid prolonged gas crunch

ISLAMABAD

Residents of Hyderabad in Pakistan's Sindh province are facing severe difficulties due to an ongoing gas shortage, with many claiming that the limited supply schedule announced by the gas utility is not being followed.

The situation has particularly affected women managing household chores during the intense summer heat.

Under the schedule issued by Sui Southern Gas Company (SSGC), gas is supposed to be available for three hours each in the morning, afternoon and evening. However, residents from several parts of Hyderabad said they are either receiving no gas during these periods or experiencing extremely low pressure that makes cooking difficult.

Many households reported that gas pipelines carry only air for the first 15 to 20 minutes of the scheduled supply period. Women said they repeatedly check their stoves to see if gas has arrived and often leave burners open to release trapped air. This practice, they claim, increases gas bills because meters continue running despite the lack of usable gas.

A resident from Latifabad said families are spending hours preparing a single meal while paying for what they described as air passing through the pipelines. Frustration among residents has grown as daily routines are disrupted by the shortage.

The crisis has also led to increased demand for alternative cooking solutions. Sales of electric stoves, induction cooktops, ceramic cookers, solar ovens and LPG cylinders have reportedly risen. Lightweight fibreglass LPG cylinders are also becoming popular among consumers.

The Hyderabad complaints follow similar utility shortages in Karachi during Eidul Azha. Residents reported disruptions in water, gas and electricity despite official assurances, raising concerns about the reliability of essential services across Sindh during peak demand and extreme weather.

Mbappe, Cherki reportedly upset over FFF image rights deal with betting firm

French stars Mbappe and Cherki unhappy over image use in campaign

PARIS

French football stars Kylian Mbappe and Rayan Cherki have reportedly expressed strong displeasure over the French Football Federation's (FFF) handling of image rights after their photographs were used in a promotional campaign linked to betting operator Betclic.

According to reports, the two forwards were unhappy after the FFF allegedly authorised the use of their images for promotional purposes without clear communication regarding the final advertising context. The campaign is said to involve Betclic, an official commercial partner of the federation.

The development has reportedly created tension within the French national team camp ahead of the upcoming FIFA World Cup, where France are among the title favourites. Several other national team players, including Desire Doue, Michael Olise, and Ousmane Dembele, were also featured in the same promotional material.

The images were reportedly taken during a routine photoshoot at Clairefontaine, the French national team's traditional training base.

However, the players are said to have been unaware that the photographs would later be used in a betting-related advertising campaign, leading to concerns over consent and transparency.

Both Mbappe and Cherki have clarified that their issue is not with Betclic as a brand, but rather with the FFF's decision-making process and lack of communication. The players are reportedly seeking clarification from the federation and an explanation regarding how their image rights were used.

While discussions are ongoing, any immediate resolution is considered unlikely before France begin their World Cup campaign. The team is scheduled to open their Group I fixtures against Senegal on June 16, followed by matches against Iraq and Norway.

The controversy comes at a sensitive time for the French squad, which includes a star-studded lineup featuring Mbappe, Ousmane Dembele, Marcus Thuram, and a strong midfield anchored by Aurelien Tchouameni and N'Golo Kante.

The French Football Federation has not yet issued an official detailed response regarding the allegations, though the matter is expected to be addressed internally as the team continues preparations for the tournament.

Despite the off-field distraction, France remain focused on their World Cup ambitions, with expectations high for another deep run led by their experienced core and emerging young talents.

The tournament is widely expected to serve as a breakthrough platform for these rising stars, who will be competing alongside established international icons.

Among the most talked-about young talents is Mexico's 17-year-old attacking midfielder Gilberto Mora, who represents Club Tijuana in Liga MX. Despite limited senior experience, Mora has already been included in the host nation's World Cup squad, with expectations high on his creativity and attacking flair.

Senegal will rely on 18-year-old winger Ibrahim Mbaye, who has already made 38 appearances for Paris Saint-Germain and boasts Champions League experience. His pace and versatility are expected to be valuable assets for the African side.

Egypt's Hamza Abdelkarim, also 18, has made headlines after becoming the first Egyptian to join FC Barcelona's youth setup, while Morocco's Ayyoub Bouaddi, a dynamic midfielder for Lille, arrives with strong European experience and growing interest from top clubs.

Spain's Lamine Yamal remains one of the brightest young stars in world football. At just 18, the FC Barcelona winger has already won multiple domestic titles and is seen as a key figure in Spain's title ambitions at the World Cup. wOther emerging names include Ivory Coast winger Yan Diomande, who currently plays in the Bundesliga with RB Leipzig, and Brazil's Endrick, the 19-year-old striker on loan at Lyon from Real Madrid, both of whom are expected to play important roles for their national teams.

The Indian Athletics Series 8 in Pune witnessed impressive performances from Karnataka's rising stars Yashas P and Prakruthi R Rao, who clinched gold medals in their respective events, highlighting the growing depth of sprint and middle-distance talent in the country.

Christian Eriksen collapses during friendly against Ukraine, match abandoned

COPENHAGEN

Danish footballer Christian Eriksen collapsed on the pitch during a friendly match against Ukraine, prompting immediate medical attention and the eventual abandonment of the game, the Danish Football Federation confirmed.

In an official statement posted on social media platform X, the federation said that Eriksen was conscious and "doing well under the circumstances" following the incident. The statement also confirmed that the match had been called off as a precautionary measure after the on-field medical emergency.

The incident occurred during an international friendly, with players from both teams visibly shaken as medical staff rushed to attend to Eriksen. Officials quickly halted play and later decided not to resume the match, prioritising player safety and wellbeing.

Eriksen's collapse has once again raised concerns in the football world given his previous medical emergency during the UEFA European Championship in 2021, when he suffered a cardiac arrest during Denmark's opening match in Copenhagen.

On that occasion, he received life-saving cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) on the field before being stabilised and transported to hospital.

Following the 2021 incident, Eriksen was fitted with an implantable cardioverter-defibrillator (ICD), a device designed to regulate heart rhythm and prevent further life-threatening episodes. Despite that setback, he made a remarkable return to professional football and continued to represent both club and country at the highest level.

Nelly Korda wins U.S. Women's Open after dramatic final-putt finish

LOS ANGELES

World No. 1 Nelly Korda produced a nerve-shredding finish to win the U.S. Women's Open at Riviera on Sunday, securing her second consecutive major title after a final-hole moment that left spectators stunned and briefly unsure of the outcome.

Korda's closing 2 1/2-foot putt on the 18th hole appeared routine, but it caught the left edge and circled the cup before finally dropping in amid a wave of gasps and cheers. The dramatic finish capped a composed final-round 2-under 69, giving her a one-shot victory over England's Charley Hull and Mexico's Gaby Lopez.

The 27-year-old finished at 8-under 276 to claim her fourth career major title and extend a dominant stretch that has defined her season. Despite the victory, Korda admitted the finish tested her emotions to the limit.

"It's even sweeter with that ice cream swirl on the last hole," she said, referring to the rollercoaster final putt that nearly forced a playoff.

Korda's path to victory was far from straightforward. She entered the final round tied with several players after a week that required constant adjustments, including a mid-tournament grip change suggested by her sister Jessica. After a shaky opening round, she responded with back-to-back 67s to rejoin the lead group heading into Sunday.

The final round remained tightly contested throughout, with seven players separated by just two strokes at one stage. Korda stayed steady under pressure, avoiding a bogey on the back nine while challengers faltered in the windy conditions.

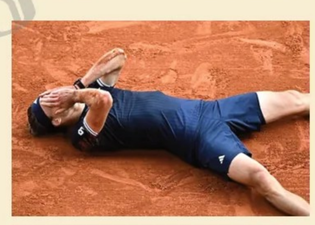
A crucial birdie on the 17th hole gave her the edge before the tense finish on 18. Hull and Lopez both pushed hard with strong closing rounds, but ultimately fell short in a tightly packed leaderboard that kept shifting until the final putt.

Korda, who also won earlier in the season at the Chevron Championship, has now recorded multiple victories and several runner-up finishes in a dominant campaign that has solidified her status at the top of women's golf.

"This week was definitely a grind," she said. "You don't always need your best game in majors, just the right mindset." As the putt dropped and relief turned into celebration, Korda smiled at the chaos of the moment—one that may come to define another milestone in her remarkable career.

Alexander Zverev finally wins French Open after years of heartbreak in Paris

PARIS



Alexander Zverev finally captured his maiden Grand Slam title after defeating Flavio Cobolli in a dramatic five-set French Open final. The German star overcame years of heartbreak, injuries, and missed opportunities at Roland Garros. Zverev's emotional triumph marked a career-defining breakthrough, transforming him into a long-awaited major champion.

Years of frustration, heartbreak, and near misses finally came to an emotional end for Alexander Zverev as the German star captured his maiden Grand Slam title at the French Open, breaking a long-standing barrier that had defined much of his career.

The world No. 3 collapsed onto the clay of Court Philippe-Chatrier after defeating Italy's Flavio Cobolli in a gripping five-set final, overwhelmed by emotion as memories from past disappointments in Paris flooded back. The victory marked a defining moment in Zverev's career, transforming him from one of the sport's most talented underachievers into a major champion.

This was the same court where Zverev suffered one of his darkest moments in 2022, when he twisted his ankle during a semifinal against Rafael Nadal and had to leave in a wheelchair. It was also the venue where he let a two-sets-to-one lead slip in the 2024 final against Carlos Alcaraz, extending his wait for a Grand Slam title.

"All the emotions came out because this court is very special to me," Zverev said after his victory. "It has given me some of the toughest moments of my life, but also now the best one."

The German triumphed 6-1, 4-6, 6-4, 6-7(5), 6-1 in a physically demanding match lasting over four hours. Cobolli fought bravely, pushing the contest into a deciding set, but Zverev's experience and composure proved decisive as he closed out the match on his second championship point.

With this win, Zverev secured his first Grand Slam title in his fourth major final, joining an elite group of players who achieved the feat, including Andre Agassi, Goran Ivanisevic, and Dominic Thiem.

The absence of top rivals Jannik Sinner and Carlos Alcaraz opened a rare opportunity in the draw, which Zverev seized with determination and consistency throughout the tournament. He also overcame earlier career scars, including the 2020 US Open final loss and the 2025 Australian Open defeat.

After lifting the Coupe des Mousquetaires, Zverev celebrated with visible relief, holding the trophy aloft as the Paris crowd acknowledged a long-awaited breakthrough.

"This title means everything," he said. "It changes how I believe in myself. Now I know I can do it again."

For the first time, the World Cup has expanded from 32 to 48 teams, adding a new Round of 32 and increasing the total number of matches from 64 to 104. The tournament will be played across 16 stadiums over 39 days, making it the most extensive World Cup ever staged.

A total of 1,248 players from 449 clubs across 71 countries will participate. England-based clubs contribute the highest number of players, while Premier League champions Manchester City lead all clubs with 19 representatives.

The tournament could also witness history from some of football's greatest stars. Portugal's Cristiano Ronaldo, with a record 226 international appearances, and Argentina's Lionel Messi are set to become the first players to feature in six World Cups. Messi enters the tournament with 13 World Cup goals, just three behind all-time leading scorer Miroslav Klose.

Only eight nations have won the World Cup since its inception in 1930. Brazil remains the most successful team with five titles and is the only country to have qualified for all 23 editions.

Defending finalists France will attempt to become only the third nation to reach three consecutive World Cup finals. Meanwhile, newcomers Cape Verde, Curaçao, Jordan and Uzbekistan will make their World Cup debuts.

With 40 additional matches compared to previous editions, the 2026 tournament is expected to surpass the record of 172 goals scored at the 2022 World Cup in Qatar, further cementing its place as a landmark event in football history.

Experts call India a vital part of the world's new "industrial sunbelt." Faustine Delasalle, CEO of the Mission Possible Partnership, noted that clean energy protects economies from the unstable prices and supply shocks of fossil fuels.Meanwhile, an industrial leader in India, stated that the nation has a golden opportunity to become a top global exporter of clean fuels. The next big step for India is turning these grand promises into reality by securing steady funding and building stronger market demand over the coming decade.

MOROCCO INVITES INDIA FOR POWERFUL ECONOMIC ALLIANCE

NEW DELHI

Morocco is actively working to deepen its economic partnership with India, offering itself as a strategic gateway for Indian businesses to enter massive European and African markets. Already a critical provider of phosphates to India, the North African country is pitching fresh collaborations across several advanced industries, including defense, aerospace, automotive, logistics, and green technologies.

Bilateral relations have intensified significantly following multiple high-level diplomatic meetings. India's Defense Minister Rajnath Singh recently made a historic visit to Morocco, marking the first time an Indian defense chief has toured the nation. During his stay, the two countries signed a crucial agreement on defense cooperation, focusing heavily on maritime security, cyber defense, and counter-terrorism.

A major highlight of this defense push was the joint opening of a massive, 20,000-square-meter Tata Advanced Systems manufacturing plant in Berrechid. This advanced facility will produce cutting-edge combat vehicles designed in partnership with India's DRDO. Beyond military hardware, trade ministers from both nations have held extensive talks to boost trade in pharmaceuticals, chemicals, and advanced manufacturing.

Morocco's appeal as a premier industrial destination continues to skyrocket globally. The nation was recently crowned as Africa's top industrial economy in the 2025 Africa Industrialization Index by the African Development Bank Group. As the continent's largest car exporter and a global leader in vehicle manufacturing, Morocco provides an ideal launching pad for Indian exporters aiming to expand their global footprint over the coming decade.

India's warehouse stock hits 514 million feet

MUMBAI

India's industrial and warehousing real estate sector is growing rapidly, recording a huge leasing volume of 18.3 million square feet in the first quarter of 2026. According to reports, this massive surge has pushed the country's total warehouse stock to a staggering 514 million square feet across eight major cities.

The report notes that the market is currently on a clear path to hit 850 million square feet by 2030, highlighting India's rising status as a premier global manufacturing and supply hub. High-quality Grade A spaces saw a 20 percent jump compared to last year, now making up more than half of the country's entire inventory. Actual factory setups contributed 5.1 million square feet of the newly leased space this quarter, building directly on last year's highly successful momentum. Within this manufacturing block, heavy engineering companies took the lead with a 47 percent share, while automotive businesses followed closely behind at 32 percent.

Meanwhile, pure storage warehousing took the lion's share of quarterly activity at 13.2 million square feet. This specific demand was heavily driven by third-party logistics firms, followed closely by consumer sectors like e-commerce, retail, and fast-moving consumer goods.

Geographically, the western regions ruled the market. Mumbai and Pune commanded a dominant 43 percent share of total leasing activity. Delhi-NCR remained the vital northern gateway with 20 percent, while southern business hubs Bengaluru and Chennai tightly secured 13 percent and 12 percent respectively.

Air India and Tata Digital face review

NEW DELHI

Tata Trusts trustees held a meeting to review detailed presentations on the Tata Group's most capital-heavy and loss-making ventures, including Air India and Tata Digital. This high-profile gathering is highly significant, occurring just days before a pivotal Tata Sons board meeting set for June 12, where major leadership and capital decisions will be finalized.

The trustees will closely evaluate presentations regarding Air India, Tata Digital, and Tata Electronics. These discussions are expected to focus heavily on the core investment logic, daily operating performance, and ongoing financial losses within these newer business segments. While it remains unconfirmed who will actually deliver these reports, Tata Trusts Chairman Noel Tata is expected to share critical insights from the previous board meeting held on May 26.

Reports suggest that the conclusions reached during the session will directly shape future strategies regarding leadership roles and the speed of funding across the group's emerging businesses. Air India, Tata Digital, and Tata Electronics currently demand the most intense scrutiny because of their massive funding requirements and long timelines before turning a profit.

Furthermore, conversations within Tata Trusts have increasingly centered on long-term governance, succession planning, and the future trajectory of the entire conglomerate.

Experts demand new transport policy for cities

NEW DELHI

With India's vehicle fleet skyrocketing past 413 million, top experts are urgently demanding a brand-new urban transport framework. This call for action came as the Indian School of Public Policy launched a comprehensive review of the country's outdated 2006 transportation rules to tackle modern traffic chaos.

Official data shows a staggering surge in vehicle ownership, jumping from just 90 million in 2006 to over 413 million by 2025. Experts argue that past policies failed to deliver on public transit and walking paths. Instead, cities prioritized independent metro rail projects that were never properly integrated with local neighborhoods or broader mobility networks.

Furthermore, the old framework completely missed major modern challenges. Today's cities are struggling heavily with parking management, massive e-commerce deliveries, app-based ride services, and severe climate change impacts.

It has been noted that India historically viewed itself as a nation of villages, meaning cities were often treated as an afterthought. This lack of governance has only caused urban congestion to worsen.It has also been emphasized that cities will drive India's future economic growth, making a comprehensive plan absolutely vital. It's stated that the next generation of policy must weave transport directly into urban development to create truly liveable areas.

Additionally it has been warned that if public transit and walking remain inconvenient, citizens will always choose private cars, making reliable and accessible transit the only real way forward.

INDIA'S EMS BOOM

India's electronics market to hit $150 Billion

NEW DELHI

India's electronics manufacturing services market is on track for a massive explosion, potentially crossing 150 billion dollars by the financial year 2030. A new report reveals the sector has already skyrocketed from around 12 billion dollars in 2020 to 45 billion dollars in 2025, driven by strong local demand and government backing.

However, experts warn the industry faces a unique challenge. While India has become a global powerhouse for assembling smartphones and consumer tech, it still lacks deep roots in product design, high-tech components, and intellectual property. Currently, local factories must import up to 95 percent of their critical parts, which heavily limits profit margins.

The global tech assembly market is currently worth around 650 billion dollars and is expected to cross one trillion dollars by the early 2030s. Since India only controls six percent of this massive global pie, local leaders see an incredible window for future expansion.

To seize this opportunity, analysts urge Indian businesses to move past simple assembly lines and quickly master advanced engineering and product development.

Thanks to nearly 20 billion dollars in government incentives, India has successfully built an impressive manufacturing scale.

It has been emphasized that the next decade will be absolutely decisive. It has also been stated that true success will require close cooperation between the government and global tech brands to build deep component ecosystems, upgrade workforce skills, and turn India into a top-tier global electronics hub.

India crush Afghanistan by innings and 300 runs in dominant Mullanpur Test win

India dominate Afghanistan with record innings victory in one-off Test match

NEW CHANDIGARH

The Indian cricket team delivered a commanding all-round performance to defeat Afghanistan by an innings and 300 runs in the only Test of the multi-format series at the Maharaja Yadavindra Singh International Cricket Stadium in Mullanpur, underlining their dominance in red-ball cricket.

After winning the toss and opting to bat first, India piled up a massive total of 568 before declaring their innings. The foundation was laid by key contributions across the top and middle order. Yashasvi Jaiswal was dismissed early for 24, but KL Rahul and Sai Sudharsan steadied the innings with fluent centuries and valuable partnerships. Rahul went on to score 100, while Sudharsan added 81 runs. Skipper Shubman Gill continued his excellent form with a stylish 126, while Rishabh Pant contributed 81. Washington Sundar added depth with a well-made 52 off 68 deliveries, helping India set a daunting total.

Afghanistan's bowling attack struggled to contain the flow of runs, with India dominating all sessions of the opening innings. In reply, Afghanistan were bowled out for just 152 runs, forcing them to follow on after conceding a massive 412-run deficit.

Rahmat Shah top-scored for the visitors with 60 runs off 135 balls, but received little support from the other end as India's bowling unit maintained relentless pressure throughout. Left-arm spinner Manav Suthar impressed with six wickets in the first innings, while Prasidh Krishna chipped in with three wickets and Washington Sundar picked up one.

Enforced to follow on, Afghanistan showed brief resistance through Sediqullah Atal, who made 42 off 80 deliveries. However, the rest of the batting lineup once again collapsed under pressure as India's spin-heavy attack took full control of the match.

In the second innings, Kuldeep Yadav and Washington Sundar led the charge with four and three wickets respectively, while Suthar and Mohammed Siraj added one wicket each.

Afghanistan were dismissed for just 112 runs in 35.5 overs, sealing a comprehensive defeat.

India's clinical execution with both bat and ball ensured a historic innings victory, reinforcing their depth and dominance in Test cricket ahead of upcoming limited-overs assignments.

PCB considers sweeping Test overhaul after Bangladesh defeat

ISLAMABAD

Following Pakistan's 0–2 Test series defeat against Bangladesh, the Pakistan Cricket Board is considering a sweeping overhaul of its Test structure, with major changes under discussion in coaching, selection, and captaincy roles.

The Pakistan Cricket Board is reviewing the future of head coach Sarfaraz Ahmed and Test captain Shan Masood as part of a broader reset aimed at improving red-ball performances. According to sources, the board's advisors have urged a complete restructuring after what they termed a "disappointing" series outcome.

Officials within the PCB are also said to be in advanced discussions with former Pakistan cricketers Younis Khan and Mohammad Hafeez regarding potential leadership and management roles. Both former players have reportedly held preliminary talks with the board, though no final agreement has been reached yet.

A source indicated that one of the key proposals involves relieving Sarfaraz Ahmed of his senior coaching responsibilities and reassigning him to youth development, including the Under-19 and Pakistan A teams. However, this change is expected to depend on whether Younis Khan agrees to take up a more senior position within the setup, given his previous conditions for working with the board.

The future of Shan Masood as Test captain is also under scrutiny.

While the board is actively exploring leadership alternatives, Masood is believed to have requested continuity at least through the upcoming away series against West Indies and England.

In parallel, Mohammad Hafeez is being considered for a dual administrative role, potentially as chief selector and head of the international cricket operations department. However, discussions remain at an early stage, and concerns have been raised internally about the optics of appointing a former critic of the board into a senior position.

Tilak Varma, Mohammed Siraj among top buys in inaugural TG20 auction

HYDERABAD

India's T20 vice-captain Tilak Varma emerged as the most expensive player at the inaugural TG20 player auction held in Hyderabad, marking a high-profile start to the new franchise league ahead of its maiden season.

Tilak, who was recently appointed vice-captain of the Indian squad for the upcoming T20I tours of Ireland and England under captain Shreyas Iyer, was picked up by Medak Falcons for ₹33 lakh after intense bidding among franchises. His growing stature in Indian cricket and consistent performances in the shortest format made him one of the most sought-after names in the auction pool.

Fast bowler Mohammed Siraj also attracted significant attention, joining Warangal Warriors for ₹14 lakh. The right-arm pacer, known for his ability to deliver in powerplay and death overs, was among the marquee names in the auction and is expected to play a key role in the franchise's bowling attack.

Both Tilak Varma and Siraj were placed in the Icon Class category, which featured several high-profile domestic and international players. The auction also included A+ and A categories, offering franchises a wide range of talent across experience levels and formats.

Among uncapped players, all-rounder CV Milind stood out as the most expensive signing. He was acquired by Anvita Khammam Aces for ₹17 lakh, following strong interest from multiple teams. His recent domestic performances reportedly played a major role in driving up his value during the bidding process. The TG20 league, which is set to begin on June 21 at the Rajiv Gandhi International Cricket Stadium in Uppal, will feature eight franchises competing in a total of 32 matches over a 21-day period. The tournament aims to provide a platform for emerging talent while also showcasing established international and domestic stars.

I don't need to change personality for captaincy, says Shreyas Iyer

MUMBAI: India's newly appointed T20I captain Shreyas Iyer has said that taking up leadership of the national side will not force him to alter his personality, stressing that he intends to remain the same competitive and grounded individual who developed his game in Mumbai's intense cricketing culture. The 31-year-old was named India's T20I skipper, replacing Suryakumar Yadav, who recently led the side to the T20 World Cup title in March. The decision marks a significant transition in India's leadership setup as the team prepares for a new cycle in the shortest format. Iyer said he has always embraced challenges and views the new responsibility as an extension of his natural mindset rather than a shift in identity. He emphasized that leadership does not require him to become someone different, but rather to stay true to his core values. "I don't have to change my personality. I have to be the same person how I was before, and not try to be someone else or be under someone's shadow," Iyer said, underlining his approach to captaincy. Reflecting on his upbringing, Iyer highlighted the highly competitive nature of Mumbai cricket, where young players constantly strive to break into elite levels. He said this environment shaped his mentality and instilled a strong desire to win from an early age.

"My mindset was always about winning… whether it's about learning or winning, that is secondary," he added, noting that enjoying the game and maintaining competitiveness helped him evolve as a cricketer.

ICC Women's T20 World Cup a symbol of inclusive global game: Jay Shah

LONDON

The upcoming ICC Women's T20 World Cup, set to be staged in the United Kingdom from June 12 to July 5, has been described as a landmark event that reflects the International Cricket Council's broader commitment to building a more inclusive and global game.

Speaking at the official launch event held on the iconic Waterloo Bridge in London, ICC chairman Jay Shah said the tournament represents a significant milestone in the evolution of women's cricket.

The glittering ceremony brought together captains of all 12 participating teams, symbolising the growing stature and visibility of the women's game on the global stage.

Shah said the upcoming edition is expected to be the most ambitious and exciting in the tournament's history, highlighting the ICC's continued efforts to expand the reach and appeal of women's cricket across new audiences and regions.

He noted that the event is not just a competition but also a celebration of progress, opportunity and inclusion within the sport.

According to Shah, fan engagement activities planned across host cities such as Birmingham, Manchester, Leeds, Bristol and Southampton are designed to build anticipation and connect communities with the sport. Street cricket sessions, interactive games and entertainment programmes were also organised as part of the launch festivities, involving young participants from across the capital.

The ICC Women's T20 World Cup will feature 12 international teams competing for the prestigious title.

New Zealand enter the tournament as defending champions after their victory over South Africa in the 2024 final, while Australia remain the most successful side in the competition's history with six titles to their name.

India, led by Harmanpreet Kaur, will be among the strong contenders as they aim to win their maiden Women's T20 World Cup title, having recently claimed the 50-over crown last year.

With rising global competitiveness and increased fan interest, expectations are high for a fiercely contested tournament that could further elevate women's cricket to new heights.

MSK Prasad's 'rested not dropped' claim on Suryakumar Yadav sparks debate

MUMBAI

Former India chief selector MSK Prasad has stirred discussion in cricketing circles with his comments on Suryakumar Yadav's omission from India's T20I squad for the upcoming tours of Ireland and England. The squad announcement, made by the Ajit Agarkar-led selection committee, saw Shreyas Iyer take over as captain while Suryakumar was left out entirely, triggering widespread debate over India's selection strategy ahead of the next T20 World Cup cycle.

Suryakumar's exclusion came after a below-par IPL 2026 season with Mumbai Indians, where he managed 270 runs in 13 matches. His recent dip in T20I form, along with fitness considerations, has been cited as a possible reason for the selectors' decision. However, Prasad offered a contrasting interpretation, suggesting that the star batter has not been dropped but rested as part of workload management.

Prasad argued that it would be unusual for a World Cup-winning captain to be removed immediately after a major triumph. He pointed out that senior players such as Jasprit Bumrah and Hardik Pandya were also given breaks, implying that Suryakumar's omission could be part of a broader rotation policy. According to him, India's think tank may be carefully managing the workload of key performers to ensure long-term readiness.

"You don't drop your World Cup-winning captain like that and that too in the next international match itself," Prasad said, adding that all three players have been at the top of ICC rankings and remain vital to India's plans. He expressed confidence that they would return to the squad sooner rather than later, reinforcing the idea that the omission is temporary rather than permanent.

Meanwhile, Prasad also questioned the absence of Rajat Patidar from the T20I squad. The Royal Challengers Bengaluru captain enjoyed a stellar IPL 2026 season, scoring 501 runs at an average of 41.75 and a strike rate of 192.69, while leading his team to consecutive titles.

HARMANPREET EYES T20 WORLD CUP GLORY

LONDON

India captain Harmanpreet Kaur is confident her team has the ability to win the ICC Women's T20 World Cup 2026, urging her players to stay balanced and focus on playing quality cricket rather than being burdened by expectations.

Speaking at the Captains' Carnival in London ahead of the tournament, Harmanpreet said India's triumph in the 2025 Women's ODI World Cup had significantly boosted the profile of women's cricket across the country.

"We have the potential to win the World Cup. The key is to stay balanced — neither taking too much pressure nor becoming overconfident. We just need to focus on playing good T20 cricket," Harmanpreet said.

The skipper noted that India's recent success had inspired more young girls to take up the sport and expressed hope that another strong campaign would further accelerate the growth of women's cricket.

India enter the tournament as reigning ODI world champions and have been drawn in a challenging Group 1 alongside Australia, South Africa, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Netherlands.The Harmanpreet-led side will begin its campaign against arch-rivals Pakistan at Edgbaston in Birmingham on June 14 before facing the Netherlands, South Africa, Bangladesh and Australia in the group stage.

India will be looking to bounce back from a 4-1 T20I series defeat to South Africa and regain momentum on the global stage.
